This book provides a comprehensive exploration of climate justice in tourism, critically examining how tourism contributes to and is impacted by the global climate crisis. It interrogates dominant growth-centric, colonial and anthropocentric tourism models, and calls for radical transitions toward just, decolonised and regenerative futures.

Freya Higgins-Desbiolles is Adjunct, Business Unit, Adelaide University, Australia and Adjunct Professor, Taylor's University, Malaysia.

Raymond Rastegar is Lecturer in Tourism at Griffith University, Australia.

Roshis Krishna Shrestha is Research Assistant Professor at Hong Kong Polytechnic University.
